

GraphNode class – added function that returns a SortedSet copy of the node's edges (different from underlying rep, which is a TreeSet). This would be faster than the edgeStrings() function for iterating through the GraphNode's set of edges, since it no longer requires making a LinkedList by iterating through the edges and constructing a new string representing each edge.